STRAIGHT RULES SHOULD BE MADE

Marquis of Queensberry Code Is Wanted.

INFIGHTING HURTS GAME

Public Does Not Understand One-Arm-Free Style, and Trouble Is Caused.

Brother Pat Raedy, whose work as referee in the friendly fight discussion in which Tommy Lowe won from Kid Manning for the education of the members of the Rock Spring Club at their first meeting on Tuesday night, was criticised, feels that he has a grievance. Brother Raedy says he was cruelly misjudged about allowing the men to do so much infighting, because the audience did not understand that as long as one arm was free the two boys had a right to whack away, and that if anything, he once or twice separated them too soon. This is his version of the case as told in The Times office this morning, and certainly Brother Raedy has a right to present his side, for he experienced the hardships of a referee's life by receiving three clouts in the jaw that he will remember for some time to come.

Refused Catchweights. This catchweight proposition made no kind of a hit with Al Herford, manager of Sullivan, who announced that his protegee was a featherweight and could not be expected to be giving away size. Limited pounds to a man of Daly's size. Daly thought it over a while and finally decided that he would make the match at 132 pounds at 3 o'clock. The bout will probably be held in Baltimore on December 2.

Sullivan was warmly applauded when he made his little speech. He said that when he fought Daly the other day and lost the decision, the match took place within two or three days after he had arrived home from a week of continual traveling from the Pacific Coast, and he was, naturally, out of shape. He gave his weight at 128 pounds, but was willing to meet Daly at a higher figure to try to win back his lost laurels. Daly refused something of an ovation when he made his little talk, and proved that he is a popular fighter in whom the lovers of the game take a deep interest.

NEW WELTER CHAMP TO FIGHT MELLODY

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 19.—Buddy Ryan and Honey Melody have been rematched by Manager Carr, of the Harlem Athletic Club, for a return battle November 28. Directly after their fight Melody asked his conqueror if he would give him a chance to regain his lost laurels, and the North Sider told him if he could get a club to make it worth while he would willingly meet him again.

In talking about the fight Melody said: "I have made fifty-one fights and this was the first one I ever lost. I was knocked out. When I came here to fight Martin Duffy I made no complaint when he came in at 147½ pounds, instead of 142, as agreed, and when Ryan was overweight I let it go rather than dispute the point. I have tried to do all I could to help the sport along, and therefore, I think I am entitled to a little consideration from the Ryan end."

PAT DONOVAN FOR PROVIDENCE CLUB

Report That Popular Leader Will Leave Washington.

TREATMENT UNSATISFACTORY

Sir Patsy Wants to Become Minor League Magnate—Now in Position to Attain His Ambition.

To Patsy Donovan, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, and now leader of the Washington team, of the American League, has been offered the management of the Providence Club of the Eastern League at a salary of $5,000 a year, according to recent yarns. Donovan now has the matter under consideration, and if he can secure his release from the Washington Club the chances are he will accept Powers' offer.

President Powers, of the Eastern League, who is a stockholder in the Providence Club, is determined to secure a capable manager for the Rhode Island team.

As soon as he learned there was a possible chance to obtain Donovan he opened up negotiations with Patsy, and the pair are now dickering.

Donovan refused to make any statement regarding his proposed connection with the Providence Club.

He practically admitted, however, that he has been approached on the matter, and the chances are that if he can secure his release from Johnson he will be at the head of the Providence team next season.

Donovan has expressed his dissatisfaction at conditions in Washington more than once this season. Everything in the Senate camp is not satisfactory and Patsy feels the restraint placed upon him.

Minor Magnate. Donovan has also often expressed his desire to become a magnate in a minor league. If he obtained the management of the Providence Club and made good he would very likely be in a position to attain his ambition to become a minor league magnate.

As manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, in 1933, Donovan received one of the largest salaries ever paid to a baseball player. For that one season he got $35,000. Strife in the ranks of the Cardinals caused Donovan to resign his position as manager at the close of the season of 1933.

HEMPSTEAD YOUNG MEN DETAINED FROM BUSINESS

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Nov. 19.—About a dozen young men of this place, employed in New York city, were detained here by subpoenas to testify in an action brought by a tailoring company in Manhattan against a Hempstead tailor.

They were compelled to send telegrams explaining the cause of their absence from their place of business. The witnesses and their clothes were inspected by a jury, which declared in favor of the Hempstead tailor.

The case will be appealed and the young men declare they will dodge subpoenas hereafter.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE AND ST. STEPHEN'S TIE

Neither Team Able to Score in Hard Game Yesterday at Monument Grounds.

The St. John's eleven and the team representing the St. Stephen's Institute played a tie of 0 to 0, on the gridiron of the Monument Grounds, yesterday afternoon.

The teamwork of St. John's was good. Rover kept himself and his men cool, and used the plays at his command with skill. Monahan, St. John's left end, broke up some of the institute's trick plays, and generally threw the runners for a loss. W. O'Neil never failed to make his distance. Drury tackled well, and the linemen all held together. Freeman and Captain Ryan saved the wearers of the scarlet and gray, on more occasions than one.

The collegians started right in to play ball as soon as the college boys could blow, and did not quit until time was up. It was when it began to grow dark, that St. Stephen's began to make some headway, as the college boys could hardly distinguish the man that carried the ball. The same thing happened when St. John's got the ball. The nearest St. John's came to scoring was at the end of the first half, when the ball was on the 25-yard line. St. John's goal was never in danger. The line-up:

CHARGES MICHIGAN WITH DIRTY WORK

Chicago Claims That Yost's Men Battered Up Maroon Stars in Recent Game.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 19.—As a result of the alleged dirty work of the Michigan players in the game against Chicago athletic relations between the two schools may be severed. It is believed at the Midway University that when the official knowledge of the actions of the Michigan players reaches the ears of President Harper he will order that summary action be taken.

Michigan steadfastly refuses to play Minnesota because the Wolverines accuse the Gophers of having played "dirty" football in the game last season. Thus do the Wolverines dodge the very strongest competitor. Chicago has grounds for taking the same steps and getting away from the hardest game on the maroon schedule.

No action will be taken for some time, but that the slugging by Michigan will be given official investigation is certain. Maroon supporters declare that when once President Harper sets eyes upon his band of crippled men he will order that Michigan be wiped off the maroon slate for all time.

Big Events to Close At Benning Tonight

Many Good Entries Expected in the District Special, Washington Cup, and Maximum Stakes.

At midnight tonight entries will close for some of the most important races on the Washington Jockey Club's stake calendar.

These are the District Special at one mile and a half, the Washington Cup at two miles and a quarter, and the Maximum Stakes at three miles. The Maximum is the largest flat race run east of the great divide, and the most prominent reminder we have of the old days when distant racing found as much favor as the sprint affairs of the present time. Only one longer flat race is run in this country than the Maximum. This is the Thornton, a four-mile event annually programmed for the Oakland, Cal., track.

Long distance racing is ever popular with the public and the Washington Jockey Club has in the last few years done much for racing by instituting a series of such events. More races of this character are run at Benning than at any other track on the Eastern circuit. Only three of the New York tracks have a race at a distance of one mile and three-quarters or greater, and Benning has as many races of this character as all the others put together.

The Washington Cup will be run on Thanksgiving Day, and while the entries are not yet known they are sure to be sufficient in class and quantity to insure a splendid holiday drawing card.

There was little feature to the racing yesterday, there being no stakes on the program, but anything that was lacking in the way of excitement was supplied when the judges placed Monacador first in the fourth race. Fully nine-tenths of those who saw the race from the grand stand and lawn believed that Goldfleur had won, and could hardly believe their eyes when they saw Monacador's number hoisted. They thought a mistake had been made and gathered around the stand expecting that it would be corrected.

There was no disposition, however, on the part of the judges to make any change. They were in fact emphatic in their claims that no error had been made. "Monacador won by a margin that would offer no possible excuse for a mistake on our part," said Clarence McDowell, the presiding judge. "I can't help how it looked to the stand. Monacador certainly had his head in front when the horses passed me."

It was the familiar old story of one horse on the inner rail, the other on the outside, not ten feet from the judges and coming fast. The deceptive angle which has been the cause of more riots than any other condition which the management of race tracks is confronted, was blamed for it all. The judges are the only ones in a position to decide on a finish so close as this one, and there is no reason to doubt that they were alert, and placed the horses exactly as they crossed the finishing line.

Out in the paddock, after the fourth race, there was an angry young man. He was short of stature, not especially pretty to look upon, had a squint in one eye and chewed tobacco fiercely. It was Mickey Crimmins, the "Gas House" jockey, from New York, who knows the shortest way around the track if he ignores the latest thing in cravats. Mickey was mad clear through. He had ridden Goldfleur and felt sure his horse had won. "It's awful, awful," he told his friends. "If ever I win a race in my life, I win that one by a lot, see," and Mickey refused to be comforted.

Balm for his lacerated feelings came later when an offer was made him to ride for James R. Keene next year. Trainer James Rowe, of the Keene stable, is anxious to sign Crimmins, and negotiations are now under way for a transfer of his contract.

The trainers and clockers who gather at the track early in the day to see the work of the horses have a new pastime. They have found great sport in the last few mornings chasing rabbits, which have made their appearance in the infield. No dogs are allowed on the course, and the rabbits gambol about in the field undisturbed until the trainers get through with their work, when the chase begins. They are lively ones, and it is a question whether those persons most prominent in these chases are prize hunters for a 100-yard dash, or if the ill-fortune of racing has reduced them to such extremities that bunny would be a welcome addition to their daily bill of fare.

"Never kick at a decision," said Roger Tilden, the New York baseball fan, when a howl went up over the placing of the horses in the fourth race. "It does no good either on the race track or ball field. The judge or the umpire has all the best of it and usually he is right. I feel sure they are in this case." It afterwards developed that Tilden had a swell wager on Monacador.

Personal Comment on Men and Things in the Field of Sports

It is likely that Penn will drop Cornell from the Thanksgiving date and put on Columbia. "I" said that the Quakers do not like the horrid things the Ithaca boys have been saying about the scholarship standing of certain Penn athletes.

A bill to legalize boxing will be introduced at the coming session of the New York Legislature.

Kid Gilbert and Joe Smith, of Philadelphia, will meet at Baltimore Monday evening.

Jimmy Flynn and Tommy Reilly will box at Butte next Wednesday.

The stewards of the Western Jockey Club have again thrown down the applications of the outlaws that raced at the Newport track in Cincinnati and at the Union Park in St. Louis.

The Yale Swimming Club has challenged the Cornell Club to a dual aquatic meet to be held at Buffalo.

The Carlisle and Haskell Indians will meet at the Stadium, St. Louis, on November 26. It is expected that President Roosevelt will attend, as he will be at the exposition on that day.

M. J. Thompson, Georgetown, will referee the annual North Carolina-Virginia game at Richmond on Thanksgiving Day.

A scrap has been arranged between Penny Yanger and Kid Sayres before a Milwaukee Club on November 25.

Tom Sharkey intends to enter the business of teaching boxing to the youths of New York.

John J. McGraw, the New York Giants' manager, was one of the six persons who had a bet on Mary Glenn the opening day at Benning. Instead of 10 to 1 McGraw got the worst odds, 40 to 1.

It is stated on definite authority that there has been no athletic agreement between Harvard and Princeton. After her defeat at the hands of Pennsylvania this fall Harvard immediately decided that the Quakers must be on next year's schedule, and as the Cambridge management has no intention of playing Princeton and Penn in the same season there is little probability of a resumption between the Tiger and the Crimson for some time.

Manager Conditine of the Metropolitan Athletic Club of Detroit, is planning a meeting between Harry Forbes and Jim Bowker for the world's bantamweight championship. The go will last twenty rounds if the authorities will agree.

It is said that Tripp, the former University of Chicago guard, will be elected captain of the Yale eleven for next fall. Rockwell, the quarterback, and Shevlin, the end, are the other aspirants, but it does not believe that if Conditine is chosen he will fall off in his generalship, while Shevlin lacks magnetism as a leader. If Tripp is elected it will be the first time that Yale has ever had a Chicago man as captain of the gridiron warriors.

TOM ROLAND.

RIVAL LOCAL TEAMS MEET THIS AFTERNOON

Students March to Field Behind Band. Light Practice for Both Elevens Yesterday.

The annual Georgetown-George Washington game began this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Georgetown Field. The Washington students assembled at University Hall at 2 o'clock and headed by a band marched to the field about eight hundred strong. At the final Georgetown mass meeting last night it was decided not to parade the field, but instead a band will be stationed in the center of the Blue and Gray cheering section to play during the game. Both teams had light practice yesterday. Coach Reilly kept the Georgetown players out later than usual, but there was no heavy work, simply signals.

The Washington team had an hour and a half signal drill followed by a long talk by Coach Horke. The Blue and Gray has a decided advantage in weight, but the Blue fellows are confident of holding their rivals to a small score. Gallaudet will meet the Maryland Agricultural College eleven in the annual game between the two institutions.

PILFERING SHOP GIRLS SIGN "I AM A THIEF"

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 19.—"I am a thief" is the initial sentence in a statement which dishonest young women clerks in a Springfield department store have been compelled to sign to avoid arrest.

In several stores indignation prevails because of the attempts of guilty clerks to cast suspicion on those who refused to join the "Women's Exchange," as the young women facetiously described the bad system of robbing their employers.

A well-known Cincinnati physician has discovered a remedy that cures goitre, or thick neck, and he has sent a free trial package, so that patients may try and know positively that goitre can be cured. Send your name and address to Dr. John F. ## SULLIVAN MATCHED WITH DALY AGAIN

Will Try to Win Back Laurels.

WEIGHT TO BE 132 POUNDS

Match Will Take Place in Two Weeks. Washington Boy Explains His Defeat.

"Kid" Sullivan, the Washington boy who has been acting as sparring partner for Joe Gans, will probably meet Tommy Daly again in the next two weeks. Daly was second to Tommy Feiz, who fought a draw with Eddie Lenny, before the Eureka Athletic Club last night, in Baltimore, and Sullivan was an interested onlooker. In the intermission between the semi-windup and the final, Sullivan hopped into the ring, and announced that he wanted a return match with Daly to decide who is the better man, as each has won from the other. Daly countered with the announcement that he felt in a generous mood, and offered to meet Sullivan at catchweights.

This catchweight proposition made no kind of a hit with Al Herford, manager of Sullivan, who announced that his protegee was a featherweight and could not be expected to be giving away size. Limited pounds to a man of Daly's size. Daly thought it over a while and finally decided that he would make the match at 132 pounds at 3 o'clock. The bout will probably be held in Baltimore on December 2.

Sullivan was warmly applauded when he made his little speech. He said that when he fought Daly the other day and lost the decision, the match took place within two or three days after he had arrived home from a week of continual traveling from the Pacific Coast, and he was, naturally, out of shape. He gave his weight at 128 pounds, but was willing to meet Daly at a higher figure to try to win back his lost laurels. Daly refused something of an ovation when he made his little talk, and proved that he is a popular fighter in whom the lovers of the game take a deep interest.

TOD SLOAN'S APPEAL UNDER ADVISEMENT

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The court of appeals yesterday heard the appeal of the Jockey Club against the decision favorable to Tod Sloan, the American jockey, growing out of his exclusion from the track.

Maitre Labori, for Sloan, contested the club's claim to be the exclusive judge of disciplinary measures. Decision was reserved. Sloan brought suit against the Jockey Club for $40,000 damages for being warned off the turf in connection with Rose de Mai's winning the Prix de Diane at the Chantilly races in May, 1932. On December 14, 1933, the court which heard the case found in favor of Sloan and condemned the Jockey Club to pay the costs of the suit, which were to be assessed later. The Jockey Club appealed.
